DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-2, 4, 5-7, and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Akao (US 5,307,464).

Claims 1 and 6, Akao discloses a microcontroller and system for allowing the user to select the peripheral devices (Figs. 1-2 and 10) having a bus, processor core 2, configurable peripheral devices 3-5, wherein the peripheral are logic external to the CPU such as interface circuits, timers, counters, and serial input/output control circuits.

Claim 4, Akao discloses the peripheral and bus are implemented on a FPGA (see Figs. 15-17 and 20).

Claims 2, 5, and 9, Akao discloses the configurable peripheral devices (peripheral functions) can be of counter, timer, serial communication (UART), ROM, RAM.

3. Claims 1, 4, and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Basset (US 5,812,867).

Claim 1, Basset discloses an integrated circuit having a bus connecting between a processor core 1 and a configurable peripheral device 3.

Claim 4, Basset discloses the configurable peripheral device and bus are implemented on a FPGA (see Fig. 7).

Claim 6, Basset discloses a system allowing a user to select peripheral devices in a programmable logic device (col. 6, ll. 50-67) having menu system (choice of options, col. 6, ll. 65-67) allowing the user to select one of the plurality of peripheral devices and an integrated circuit as recited in claim 1. Please note Basset discloses the integrated circuit having more than one peripheral device 3 (abstract).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2-3, 5, 7-8, and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Basset in view of Mattheis et al. (US 6,085,337), Davidson et al. (US 5,428,748) or applicant's admission (page 4, ll. 4-10).

Claims 2, 5, 7, and 9, Basset does not specify the type of peripheral devices. however, Mattheis discloses that peripheral such as UART, memory, watchdog timer are typical in microcontroller depending on the product containing in the microcontroller (background, col. 1, ll. 10-18). Dvavidson discloses peripheral devices such as memory, communication interface are typical to carry out the dital dat processing function. This is in line with applicant admission that peripheral such as UART, flash memory controller, interface devices are typical peripheral devices and is not significant. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to select any type of peripheral devices in order to enable the configuration of the desired peripherals selected depending on the user's choice and application of the particular microcontroller.

As for claims 3 and 8, please note UART with fixed baud rate is of conventional construction such as type NSC 858 chip manufactured by National Semiconductor Corporation or other conventional UART such as Intel 8251 or 8252. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to utilize any of the conventionally available UART chip in order to simplify the design of the microcontroller depending on the type of data transmission required.

6. Claims 3 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Akao. Akao does not disclose the UART is of fixed baud rate. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to implement the UART of any rate depending on the user's application of the microprocessor to carry out the transmitting of data.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

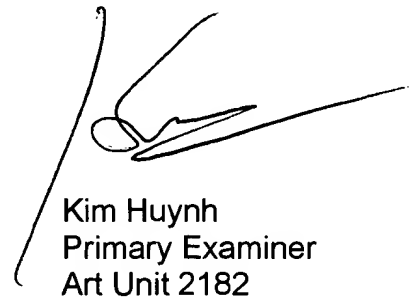

Gray (US 4,748,654) and Hicks (US 4,761,763) disclose conventional available UART such as NSC 858 and Intel 8521 and 8253.

Nilsson et al. (US 6,189,052), Bass et al. (US 6,029,155), and Barnett (US 6,145,020) disclose various configurable peripheral management systems.
